

DAILY EDITIONNUMBER 14.

The first umbrella ever seen in the streets of London was carried by the philanthropist James Hanway, who died in 1786. For many years after the introduction of umbrellas a man could not be seen carrying one without being booed for his effeminacy, particularly when passing a hackney coach stand. The drivers of these vehicles regarded the umbrella in the light of a rival. For a long time, however, and even

"Find a short dver and hang him instead," said the judge with a laugh. "Let justice be done at any cost."

One of the evils of Calcutta is the plague of green flies from which the city suffers during the late autumn and early winter. Like most insects, the little green flies cause great affliction to the human race. On occasion the inhabitants have found it necessary to put out the gaslight even at public dinner and to take their meals practically in deep gloom illumined only by flicking a candle. It seems to prove that there is something in Plagues it is not true when the lights of the great city are becoming dim. Flies certainly are in which a moment before was quite clear is full of swarms of green flies. Wearing rusty patches and obscuring the street lamps.

The ice man in line for a rest while the coal man grows more prominent every day.

Trying to keep up with too much style has broken the rails and ruined the speed, and killed the credit of many a young fellow.

This town's looking more like a city every day, all except the streets, which are looking more like a place where the hogs love to wallow, since the rain began.

Many law-abiding citizens murder time in a most brutal manner.

It is a hard matter to give an opinion without giving advice.

The key-note to the situation is often cracked or misplaced.

Good collectors don't always make good payers.

Overcoats were comfortable yesterday and today. Such weather early in October, is unusual for this climate.

Hearst and Watson are trying to shoot the Democratic party from ambush, for the same cause.

Credit is as dangerous as an empty gun, when tampered with.

Citizens that are really worth while in any community are able to offer a remedy where they find a fault.

Think of Atlanta getting her pop-eyes direct from the waters of the St. Andrews, coming right through Dothan.

Never saw overcoats worn on the streets of Dothan so early as this before. Yesterday and today the scent of moth balls was in the air.

This town has a hacked appearance, when all the hacks it has draws up to the depots for passengers. Some of the horses pulling drays and hacks need a good long rest, on full feed, while their owners work out a hard labor sentence for cruelty to animals.

The Montgomery Advertiser hits it on the head in the following:

"The wife of William E. Cory, who is enjoying his millions, in a recent interview said she 'wanted to make the whole world happy.' Wonder if she ever thinks of that good woman who married Cory when he was poor and obscure, and made him a good wife and from whom the baby faced actress lured the unfaithful husband. Of the two, however, the deserted wife ought to be the happier, for she has the respect and good will of all good people."

We made some reference a day or two ago about the large quantity of campaign matter that has been distributed through this office and since that time we have received several other pieces of matter along the same line, coming from the same source. We hope the next shipment addressed to us will be held for postage.

Show Us.

From a statement made by Mr. T. J. Dawsey in the Dothan Home Journal of this week we clip the following:

"Its manifold benefits are so all-together too apparent to admit of the possibility of successful attacks, and finds it glorious justification today, in strength, power and prestige of the Nation and in the prosperity and happiness of all the people."

Mr. Dawsey is elector for the Republican party from the Third Congressional District and is singing the praises of his party in the above paragraph. To occupy the position of elector from his district he should be a man well informed on all matters pertaining to the government and particularly as to the matters immediately concerning this section. Without any personal or political knowledge of the man, we presume him to be just such a gentleman. If so, we want to ask him to favor us with a show down on the questions he brings to the front in his article.

Where are its "manifold benefits too apparent to admit of the possibility of successful attacks?" The echo answers "in the vaults of the monster corporations of this country who have robbed and pillaged to the very limit of endurance." They have filled their pockets with the money that should have gone to the consumer of goods, the wage earner and the small dealer whom they have robbed by special privilege.

Show us please, where is that settlement in all this southern country where "all the people are prosperous and happy?" We want to go there and drink of the waters of that land. Ye gods, man! Everybody is crying hard times. Every little farmer and every small dealer feels the pinch of the iron hand of distress which has not gone up and down seeking whom it may devour as it were. Many business failures have been reported from the most stable men of the country. Many business houses which successfully fought through the bitter and crying periods of 1892-3 have gone down under the wave of oppression this year. Ah, those bitter days of the panic of 1892-3 were easy compared with the present time.

Oh yes, the beneficiaries of special privilege under our beautiful system of government are indeed "prosperous and happy," but the great majority among the masses of the people of this country are almost in despair and for bread.

Do not talk to us of happiness and prosperity but show us where it is and we will go there quickly. —Eufaula Times.

To Whom It May Concern:

Having learned that Mr. Meade has assumed control of the moving picture show in Dothan, Ala. I certify with pleasure that if Mr. Meade conducts the entertainments in Dothan like he has in Bainbridge the public will find no place for criticism. So far as my personal knowledge goes, together with what I have heard others say the moving picture entertainments given by Mr. Meade in Bainbridge have been of such a clean, high class order that they have had the support of the very best citizens of the place.

Yours very truly,

Lunch Room

We are not selfish as Let was in regard to choosing a heritage. Our comes by inheritance; neither we value over the advantages that we possess over other communities. What we desire is that we should use our mental activities, and not let others drink too much of the cream, which should make reasoning for our selves. Is it well for our people to continue for generations in paying toll to the East to make up our cotton? Are we going to keep on paying freight always one bale of cotton to Boston? Paying more profit on the finished product than we get for the bale of cotton, and then bear the freight on the finished fabric to the cotton field again? We have the brain let the food as thought be supplied, and then there will be a cotton mill in Dothan. To the West we are paying a heavy tribute on farming implements. We have the raw material from which they are made and only need to think about making them. The same is true about farming which makes such an important part in the furnishing of every home. Now, remember we told you about trusts and their big bosses. Well, the trust people are smart and knowers. They use various methods, keeping us in slavery as to the value of their wares. But listen, we have found out one thing in regard to the medicine business. In value we give you as much as a paraffin for 80c as Mr. Meade does for one dollar. He will only sell you a dollar's worth, while we will be glad to have you take 80c worth. Our kidney remedy at 50c has the value of Swamp Root at one dollar. Then for 20c we will always give more than Mr. Meade does for 10c. In a few days we will be able to entertain you nicely. In the mean time you can phone us your wants. No. 158

At a meeting of the Commercial Club at the city hall last night, Mr. T. J. Whatley was elected president, succeeding Mr. R. C. Williams who resigned. Mr. Whatley, who is a member of Whatley & Ward, is a hustling and successful young business man, and is well qualified for the presidency of the Club.

Secretary Layfield is now prepared to re-work freight bills and collect overcharges for shippers. The Club charges 20 per cent of the amounts collected for this service, the fee going into the treasury of the Club. Buried At Bulah Church.

The remains of Mr. Lud Turner, who died at his home in this city rather suddenly Thursday evening, was buried at Bulah church yesterday evening.

Mr. Turner left a large family, but fortunately for them, he carried several thousand dollars life insurance for their benefit.

Mr. S. P. Murrell and his daughter Ida May, who have been very sick recently with typhoid fever are both much better. We are glad to learn. The young lady still has fever, having suffered a relapse a week ago, but the father is clear of fever now and will probably soon be well again.

As the train was moving slowly no one was hurt hurt much, though several were bruised up a little. The coach had been turned over to clear the track.

DECEMBER 23RD

Many of our friends have good naturedly asked if we expected to run this voting contest on forever, and not set a time for it to close. It is perfectly proper for a day to be set, and we have talked with the most interested, and from what they say December, 23 will come nearer suiting everybody than any date we have discussed. This is two days before Christmas, and we will fix the hour for receiving the last vote, at four o'clock in the afternoon of Dec 2, which is on Wednesday.

ANOTHER OFFER

In order to stimulate a little more interest in the subscription line, we will send the daily Eagle to any address, from now till Christmas, for $1. Just one dollar for nearly three months reading. There are some who haven't taken the paper. Some living out of town who could get on at this rate. Not much doing, ordinarily, out such things that happen in this section, we will say something about them. Then contestants can send in dollars on subscription, and if $5 is turned in for the paper, 600 votes will be given. If ten dollars is turned in at one time, then we will do better. We will give 1400 votes, which ought to be sufficient to satisfy, and put the contestants out in the field for another roundup. Before this thing ends we hope to have the paper in all the homes, where the people will stand for it, or us, under any circumstances.

It is the First Thousand Dollars that Counts.
"The thing that counts," said a man of independently large means, accumulated by hard work, saving and wise investments, "is the first thousand dollars. When you've got that amount together you are beginning to get somewhere, and with that start you will want to keep on. The red ink interest entries that you see put down in your savings bank book twice a year will strike you very pleasantly indeed. As interest on your thousand dollars you'll get $45 or $50 in a year. Your money has begun earning money for you."
"You've got an income now, and you'll want to add to it. You will leave that interest in the bank, to be added to your principal, and now your interest will begin to draw interest, and, to be sure, you will keep right on adding to your principal, too, and every six months you'll see those red figures growing bigger and bigger, pretty figures to contemplate, and you'll keep right along saving. But the thing that really counts is the first thousand dollars. Get that, and you're all right, and you'll always be glad you saved it."
"For there really is nothing like financial independence or like having at least some money laid by. Then if you want money you've got it. You don't have to go to friends to borrow and take the risk of being refused, the risk of being compelled to go without what you need. If you've got money in the bank you can go there and get it. There might come a time when you would need money for your family or for yourself very much. It's a grand thing to have it where you can get it."
"There's nothing mean about being saving and accumulating money. On the contrary, it is every man's duty to make himself financially independent. I don't mean at all that a man wants to get out to accumulate great wealth. There is no great fun in that. But what he does want to do is to get together enough to live on modestly."
New York Sun.
